On the importance of Curriculum Development

Curriculum is like a mirror of an educational institution as it reflects the vision and mission of the institution. It is the collective of subjects that are included in a programme of study. On the other hand, the word syllabus refers to a list of topics, books, etc. that the students study in a given subject. Clearly, both the terms related, but not the same. As we know, Bhattadev University, Bajali is going to frame and implement its own curriculum from the current academic session (2020-21), so definitely there is a need to be familiar with topic to be discussed by the speaker in the lecture programme which can help the curriculum framer in formulating a suitable curriculum keeping in view the needs of learners, the hopes and aspirations of the society at large and also the all-important employability angle. Therefore, while framing a curriculum there are many things to be taken into consideration so that it can be a visionary document in true sense. There are some technical points also to be taken into consideration while framing a curriculum. In this regard, an expert's suggestions and viewpoints may prove to be very helpful for the curriculum framer.

Considering all these facts Bhattadev University, Bajali is organizing a lecture programme on “Curriculum Development” for its faculty members in which Dr. Dulumoni Goswami, Associate Professor in the Department of Education, Gauhati University will act as the resource person. A writer of several books and many newspaper articles, and a TV panelist on educational issues, Dr. Goswami has already been working in the field of Curriculum Development for many years within his institution as well as outside it. He is experienced with participating in many National Seminars and Workshops, specially organized on the topic of Curriculum Development. His knowledge and experience will surely guide us in our efforts to prepare ‘syllabuses’ for the various study programmes of our institution.
